Mission Statement

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is an independent, nonpartisan membership organization, think tank, and publisher dedicated to being a resource for its members, government officials, business executives, journalists, educators and students, civic and religious leaders, and other interested citizens in order to help them better understand the world and the foreign policy choices facing the United States and other countries.

Founded in 1921, CFR takes no institutional positions on matters of policy. CFR carries out its mission by - maintaining a diverse membership, with special programs to promote interest and develop expertise in the next generation of foreign policy leaders;

- convening meetings at its headquarters in New York and in Washington, DC, and other cities where senior government officials, members of Congress, global leaders, and prominent thinkers come together with CFR members to discuss and debate major international issues;
- supporting a Studies Program that fosters independent research, enabling CFR scholars to produce articles, reports, and books and hold roundtables that analyze foreign policy issues and make concrete policy recommendations;
- publishing Foreign Affairs, the preeminent journal on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy;
- sponsoring Independent Task Forces that produce reports with both findings and policy prescriptions on the most important foreign policy topics; and
- providing up-to-date information and analysis about world events and American foreign policy on its website, CFR.org.

Letter from the Co-Chairs

As we mark our fifth year as co-chairs of the Council on Foreign Relations, we are pleased the institution has evolved and grown. CFR has extended its outreach to new audiences, tripled its number of publications, launched fifteen expert blogs, and developed a strong and growing following on social media platforms. Its flagship publications, Foreign Affairs, has remained the most influential journal dedicated to international affairs in an ever-changing media landscape. At the same time, CFR has stayed true to its ninety-one-year-old mission as a nonpartisan and independent think tank, publisher, and membership organization.

A U.S. presidential election inevitably heightens partisanship on both sides of the aisle, across the country, and in the press. In this rancorous environment, CFR is a truly nonpartisan and authoritative source representing a broad range of views that inform the policy debate. The analysis and opinions of more than seventy-five CFR scholars cover the policy spectrum, reflected in the intellectual content they generate in books, blogs, op-eds, television and radio appearances, and interviews and articles in leading outlets.

CFR is committed to being a resource for citizens in the United States and beyond. Ahead of the November election, CFR launched Campaign 2012, an initiative that examines the foreign policy dimensions of the presidential race via backgrounders, video briefs, and reports. The Candidates and the World blog tracks presidential contenders' positions, offers insight on subjects salient to the campaigns, and gauges international attitudes in advance of the vote.

CFR also continues to look at the domestic underpinnings of American power: Renewing America, an institution-wide initiative to generate policy recommendations for revitalizing economic strength at home and bolstering U.S. competitiveness abroad, along with the Renewing America Channel, a new online platform, showcases original research and reports, infographic scorecards, and the best coverage of these topics.

The institution's nonpartisan convening power is demonstrated by the number of Democrats and Republicans who chose CFR as a venue. This year alone CFR members met with Senators Carl M. Levin (D-MI), Lindsey O. Graham (R-SC), Robert J. Portman (R-OH), and Marco Rubio (R-FL) and Representatives Barney Frank (D-MA), Walter B. Jones (R-NC), and Kay Granger (R-TX).

The Congress and U.S. Foreign Policy program connects senators and representatives with CFR fellows and the intellectual content they generate. Over the past year, CFR programming for congressional policymakers included dozens of roundtables with experts, some seventy briefings with scholars for members of Congress and their staffs, and well over one hundred meetings with congressional offices. As one House staffer remarked, "CFR's efforts help inform Congress and help us to make good policy decisions."

Since the start of the 112th Congress, scholars have been called to testify before congressional committees twenty-six times. Bernard L. Schwartz Senior Fellow Edward Alden spoke before the House Judiciary subcommittee on immigration policy and enforcement on travel and tourism visa issues, Whitney H. Shepardson Senior Fellow Charles A. Kupchan addressed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the future of NATO, and Senior Fellow for Middle Eastern Studies Ray Takeyh and Senior Fellow for Korea Studies and Director of the Program on U.S.-Korea Policy Scott A. Snyder testified before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs on the conflicting priorities of the Iranian regime and North Korea's strategic environment, respectively.

Beyond CFR's work on Capitol Hill, the diplomatic program hosts sessions with senior foreign diplomats, while the executive branch program arranges briefings for senior officials. CFR also serves as a conduit for the administration to interact with the organization's influential membership. Throughout the programming year a number of senior officials addressed members, including Secretary of the Treasury Timothy F. Geithner, Secretary of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano, Undersecretary of Defense Michèle A. Flournoy, Deputy Secretary of Defense Ashton B. Carter, U.S. Agency for International Development administrator Rajiv Shah, and Director of National Intelligence James R. Clapper Jr.

CFR-sponsored Independent Task Forces are perhaps the best reflection of the institution's nonpartisanship. Former national security adviser Stephen J. Hadley, who chaired the first Task Force in 1995 on nuclear nonproliferation and also co-chaired the recent Task Force on Turkey, said of the program, "It is important that there are organizations like CFR that run these bipartisan efforts to show a responsible center." Task Forces—groups diverse in backgrounds and perspectives—are convened to reach a meaningful consensus on matters critical to U.S. foreign policy. Recent Task Forces have looked at often substandard K-12 education and its consequences for American national security, U.S.-Brazil relations, trade and investment policy, and U.S. policy toward Afghanistan and Pakistan.

As co-chairs, we, too, represent opposite sides of the political spectrum, another confirmation of CFR's commitment to a bipartisan balance. In or out of an election year, the Council on Foreign Relations continues to do what it does best: inform the debate. We believe in Thomas Jefferson's famous assertion that the cornerstone of democracy rests on the foundation of an informed electorate, and we are proud that CFR furthers that conviction by continuing to be an authoritative resource on international affairs for its members, educators and students, the media, business leaders, state and local officials, religious leaders, and the public.

We continue to be impressed by CFR's achievements and impact and we are honored to continue to serve as co-chairs. We are grateful to CFR Vice Chairman Richard E. Salomon for all his work, and we welcome new vice chairman David M. Rubenstein. We thank the members of the Board of Directors for their many contributions throughout the year. We would also like to acknowledge and thank CFR President Richard N. Haass for his innovative yet pragmatic leadership throughout his nine years of leading the institution.

President's Message: Continuity and Change

The Council on Foreign Relations has, for nearly a century, remained steadfast to its mission of providing authoritative analysis of the foreign policy choices facing the United States. CFR's tradition of intellectual diversity is underpinned by its principles of nonpartisanship and independence, traits emphasized by our co-chairs in their essay.

While this continuity is worth celebrating, any leading institution must also adapt. Management expert Jim Collins writes that great organizations that endure are characterized by a fundamental duality: "a set of timeless core values and core reason for being that remain constant over long periods of time" and "a relentless drive for change and progress" that enables the organization to adapt to an always-evolving world. All of us associated with CFR are mindful of balancing these twin objectives as we strive to contribute to and compete in the marketplace of ideas.

We do not want to change too much by moving away from the principles and activities that have brought the institution to preeminence. Our commitment is to be a resource to help our members and others better understand the world. And CFR accomplishes this by doing what it does best: convene meetings with senior government officials, global business and civil society leaders, and prominent thinkers; sponsor Independent Task Forces; provide up-to-date analysis of world events on its website, CFR.org; support scholarly work by its fellows in the David Rockefeller Studies Program; and publish Foreign Affairs, by all counts the best magazine in the business.

While we continue to evaluate traditional foreign policy topics from nuclear nonproliferation and Europe's economic uncertainty to the rise of China and conflict in the Middle East, we are also turning our attention to emerging issues such as noncommunicable diseases, girls' education and maternal health, the consequences of the information and communications revolutions, and the interplay of civil society, economic markets, and democracy.

We have also been focusing on the domestic underpinnings of U.S. power—a notable intellectual departure for a foreign policy organization. Premised on the understanding that the United States' ability to influence world events rests on a robust, competitive economy and a prepared citizenry, CFR's Renewing America initiative looks at how to revitalize the country's economic strength and build the foundations for future prosperity and international influence. The initiative concentrates on six issues: debt and deficits; infrastructure; education and human capital; corporate regulation and taxation; innovation; and international trade and investment.

In response to the ever-shifting information landscape, we are incorporating cutting-edge strategies to produce and distribute content tailored for new constituencies. We are using infographics, chart books, and interactives to visually illustrate complex issues and major economic trends. CFR scholars connect with new and growing audiences on an array of social media platforms through their blogs, Twitter feeds,

President Richard N. Haass

Facebook profiles, and the like. I am glad to say that we are being recognized for our innovation: For the second year in a row, CFR.org was awarded Best Use of Online Multimedia by the Overseas Press Club, this time for “Crisis Guide: Iran,” the latest multimedia feature in the Emmy Award–winning series.

In addition to virtual networking, CFR launched the Council of Councils, a group of prominent international organizations—from some two dozen countries in Asia, Europe, North America, South America, Africa, and Australia—to generate ideas to promote governance and multilateral coordination at both the global and regional levels. Between annual conferences, the Council of Councils will maintain an ongoing dialogue, including regional meetings and a monthly Global Roundup of opinion on CFR.org.

CFR is also reaching beyond traditional foreign policy circles by bringing together interested citizens whose voices are increasingly important to policy debates. These constituencies include educators and students, religious and congregational leaders, and state and local officials. Our outreach aims to connect these groups with CFR’s resources that can help them better fulfill their respective missions. This year, we convened our first Educators Workshop as a forum for academics to share ideas and to solicit feedback on the utility of our materials for the classroom.

A thorough breakdown of the year’s activities follows in the “2012 Highlights” section of this Annual Report. Implicit in this summary is that CFR is a valued, authoritative resource on foreign policy—directly, in terms of meetings with policymakers; and perhaps more important, indirectly, in terms of helping to shape the context in which foreign policy is discussed and made. CFR scholars, events, and publications inform serious debate on global issues by offering facts, analysis, and, where appropriate, prescriptions, but taking no institutional point of view.

It is hard not to be impressed by the breadth and depth of all that we do. None of this would be possible without the time and effort of a good many extraordinary individuals. I want to thank Co-Chairs Carla A. Hills and Robert E. Rubin, Vice Chairman Richard E. Salomon, newly appointed Vice Chairman David M. Rubenstein, and members of the Board of Directors for their leadership of and dedication to this institution. I also want to acknowledge the efforts of the dedicated CFR staff in New York and Washington, DC. What they do and how they do it, day in and day out, is truly admirable.

Richard N. Haass

Task Forces

CFR sponsored four Independent Task Forces over the past twelve months. Global Brazil and U.S.-Brazil Relations finds that Brazil is a significant international actor—a driver of growth within its region and an active force in world politics—whose influence on global issues is only likely to increase. The Task Force report recommends that the Obama administration recognize its global standing by endorsing the country’s bid for a seat as a permanent member of the United Nations Security Council. The Task Force was chaired by former secretary of energy Samuel W. Bodman and former president of the World Bank James D. Wolfensohn and directed by CFR Senior Fellow and Director of the Global Brazil Initiative Julia E. Sweig.

U.S. Trade and Investment Policy urges the United States to adopt policies that further its position as a dynamic trading country while bringing more Americans the benefits of global engagement. The bipartisan report calls for the Obama administration and Congress to develop a strengthened rules-based trading system that will produce American job and wage growth. The Independent Task Force was chaired by former White House chief of staff Andrew H. Card and former Senate majority leader Thomas A. Daschle and codirected by Bernard L. Schwartz Senior Fellow Edward Alden and Adjunct Senior Fellow for Business and Globalization Matthew J. Slaughter.

Led by former U.S. secretary of state Condoleezza Rice and former chancellor of the New York City Department of Education Joel I. Klein and directed by CFR term member Julia Levy, U.S. Education Reform and National Security stresses that the United States’ failure to educate its students impairs the country’s ability to thrive in a global economy and threatens U.S. national security. The report’s policy recommendations for reform of the nation’s underperforming K-12 public schools include implementing and expanding national education standards, quantifying and assessing educational achievement across the country, and offering more education choices for students and parents.

The Independent Task Force on Turkey was chaired by former secretary of state Madeleine K. Albright and former national security adviser Stephen J. Hadley and directed by Hasib J. Sabbagh Senior Fellow for Middle Eastern Studies Steven A. Cook. U.S.-Turkey Relations: A New Partnership recognizes Turkey as an increasingly influential regional and economic power and calls for American and Turkish leadership to forge a new relationship based on a set of shared strategic interests—promoting stable political transitions in the Middle East, stopping bloodshed and repression in Syria, and frustrating Iran’s pursuit of nuclear weapons.

U.S. Education Reform and National Security stresses that the United States’ failure to educate its students impairs the country’s ability to thrive in a global economy and threatens U.S. national security.

Meetings

CFR held over 250 general meetings for members in New York and Washington, DC, maintaining its reputation for convening world leaders, senior government officials, and diplomats. During the United Nations General Assembly last fall, CFR hosted the foreign ministers of Cuba, France, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, and Vietnam; the presidents of Chile, Ivory Coast, and Sierra Leone; and the secretary-general of the Arab League.

In Washington, the prime minister of Ethiopia, the home secretary of the United Kingdom, the German finance minister, the Egyptian and Portuguese foreign ministers, opposition leader Aung San Suu Kyi (via live videoconference from Myanmar), former national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, and Undersecretary of State for Democracy and Global Affairs Maria Otero addressed the membership.

In New York, members met with Chinese dissident Chen Guangcheng in his first public appearance in the United States, former U.S. special envoy George J. Mitchell, and former White House chief of staff Erskine Bowles. A meeting cosponsored by the National History Center featured biographer John Lewis Gaddis, author of George F. Kennan: An American Life. Other special events included a meeting with the service chiefs as part of the Robert B. McKeon Endowed Series on Military Strategy and Leadership and a panel discussion with top network news executives from ABC, CBS, CNN, and NBC. This year's Darryl G. Behrman Lecture on Africa was an update on Sudan, with activist George Clooney and the Enough Project's John Prendergast, while the Kenneth A. Moskow Lecture on Homeland Security and Counterterrorism featured U.S. Special Operations commander Admiral William H. McRaven.

A symposium marking the tenth anniversary of the 9/11 attacks featured former executive director of the 9/11 Commission Philip D. Zelikow, former career CIA officer and State Department coordinator for counterterrorism Henry Crumpton, CFR Shelby Cullom and Kathryn W. Davis Adjunct Senior Fellow for Counterterrorism and Homeland Security Richard A. Elections” examined issues important to both countries, including drugs, organized crime, trade, immigration, and the outlook for each country’s election. CFR and St. Antony’s College at the University of Oxford cosponsored a daylong symposium on unrest in the Middle East and North Africa featuring panel debates on the role of monarchies, the interplay between Islam and governance, and the changing politics of the region.

The annual Stephen C. Freidheim Symposium featured White House Office of Management and Budget director Jacob Lew, Financial Times U.S. managing director Gillian Tett, and former Federal Reserve chairman Alan Greenspan. Speakers analyzed the debt and fiscal deficits plaguing the United States, Europe, and other economies and proposed remedies for the crises.

Meetings of the C. Peter McColough Series on International Economics hosted Russian finance minister Anton G. Siluanov, Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney, International Monetary Fund managing director Christine Lagarde, Congressional Budget Office director Douglas W. Elmendorf, and Federal Reserve Board of Governors member Daniel K. Tarullo. The McKinsey Series on International Economics, comprising panel discussions with leading economists, held sessions on central banking and lessons learned on macroeconomics from the financial crisis.

National Program

The organization staged nearly one hundred events for national members, the over one-third of CFR membership located outside of New York and Washington, DC. Highlights included sessions with State Department officials Tamara Wittes, Michael Posner, and Reuben Brigety; a discussion on the future of global public health with Congressman Adam Smith (D-WA) and Senior Fellow Laurie Garrett; and a rollout event for the CFR-sponsored Independent Task Force report on education reform.

The National Conference—the highlight of programming for National members—featured a conversation with Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff General Martin E. Dempsey; a special session at the Intrepid Sea, Air, and Space Museum with General Stanley H. McChrystal; and a mock National Security Council meeting on U.S. policy options toward Iran featuring retired U.S. Army general John P. Abizaid, Harvard professor Joseph S. Nye Jr., former undersecretary of state for political affairs Thomas R. Pickering, energy expert Daniel Yergin, and former CIA deputy director Jami Miscik.

Corporate Program

CFR's Corporate Program hosted a number of events to bring together members of the business community and policymakers. As part of the CEO Speaker series, the institution convened meetings with the leadership of American Express, Anheuser-Busch InBev, BlackRock, Deere, Deutsche Bank, ExxonMobil, Grupo Salinas, McKinsey & Co., and SAP.

The ninth annual Corporate Conference gathered more than 370 representatives of 120 companies to explore issues at the intersection of foreign policy and international economics. Sessions featured former U.S. treasury secretaries Lawrence H. Summers and Robert E. Rubin, Princeton University economist Alan S. Blinder, Columbia University economist Glenn Hubbard, Carlyle Group vice chairman David M. Rubenstein, former U.S. secretary of state Madeleine K. Albright, SOHO China CEO Zhang Xin, and CBS's Charlie Rose.

CFR experts gave nearly 300 interviews to leading broadcast news outlets, authored over one hundred pieces on CFR.org, and published more than 350 op-eds.

David Rockefeller Studies Program

CFR experts gave nearly three hundred interviews to leading broadcast news outlets, including ABC, CNN, MSNBC, NPR, Fox News, Bloomberg, al-Jazeera, and the BBC, for shows such as Morning Joe, Fareed Zakaria GPS, Talk of the Nation, PBS Newshour, Charlie Rose, and World News Tonight. They authored over one hundred pieces on CFR.org and published more than 350 op-eds in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, Financial Times, International Herald Tribune, and other leading periodicals.

The latest CFR ebook, Iran: The Nuclear Challenge, was edited by Henry A. Kissinger Senior Fellow for U.S. Foreign Policy Robert D. Blackwill and includes contributions from scholars Ray Takeyh, Meghan L. O'Sullivan, Richard A. Falkenrath, Matthew Kroenig, Robert M. Danin, and Elliott Abrams. The volume maps objectives, tools, and strategies for dealing with Iran's nuclear program. In its seven chapters, the volume aims to provide clarity on policy choices and principles to assist in analyzing one of the most vexing issues in the world today.

The U.S.-India Joint Study Group, cosponsored by CFR and Aspen Institute India, released its final report in conjunction with rollout meetings in New York and Washington, DC. The group comprised business, policy, and thought leaders from the United States and India and was chaired by Robert D. Blackwill and India's National Security Advisory Board chairman Naresh Chandra. The report calls for the United States to express strong support for India's peaceful rise as a crucial component of Asian security and stability.

Scholars published five books over the past year. Senior Fellow Steven A. Cook's The Struggle for Egypt: From Nasser to Tahrir Square explains Egypt's state of affairs, its relationships with regional and international actors, the circumstances that resulted in the events of Tahrir Square, and its outlook post-Mubarak. Former adjunct senior fellow for Middle Eastern studies Thomas Lippman published Saudi Arabia on the Edge: The Uncertain Future of an American Ally, in which he dissects the challenges the country—wealthy and young, but politically stagnant and repressed—presents to itself and to U.S. interests in the region. Adjunct Senior Fellow Richard K. Betts authored American Force: Dangers, Delusions, and Dilemmas, which examines the American use of military capabilities since the end of the Cold War, and recommends that the United States exercise greater caution and restraint, using force less frequently but more decisively. In No One's World: The West, the Rising Rest, and the Coming Global Turn, Senior Fellow Charles A. Kupchan argues that the twenty-first century will mark the first time in history that the world is both interdependent and without a center of gravity or global guardian. Senior Fellow Scott A. Snyder edited The US–South Korea Alliance: Meeting New Security Challenges, in which the contributors consider the capacities and potential for cooperation, assess the corresponding challenges, and propose new forms of collaboration between the two countries.

Beyond books, the Studies Program generated an unprecedented sixty-four reports, a nearly 70 percent increase over the previous year. Among these were three Council Special Reports:

- In Partners in Preventive Action: The United States and International Institutions, Director and Senior Fellow Paul B. Stares and Fellow Micah Zenko of the Center for Preventive Action call for the United States to nurture effective international partnerships to help prevent and manage violent conflicts that threaten U.S. interests.
- The University of Vermont's F. Gregory Gause III examines the challenges and opportunities facing Saudi Arabia and argues for a more modest, businesslike relationship between Washington and Riyadh, in Saudi Arabia in the New Middle East.
- Michael Shifter, president of the Inter-American Dialogue, reviews the causes and consequences of the violence in several Central American countries and evaluates the national, regional, and international efforts intended to curb its worst effects, in Countering Criminal Violence in Central America.

CFR's think tank extended its roster of Policy Innovation Memoranda with papers on the Arctic economy, a code of conduct for outer space, U.S. policy options for Syria, American visa systems, financial regulation, governance in Afghanistan, tobacco control, U.S.-Japan relations, Yemen, and the risk of a Cuban oil spill, among other topics.

The David Rockefeller Studies Program is CFR's world-class think tank, comprising more than eighty scholars whose work over the past year includes:

- 5 Books published
- 7 Average weekly number of op-eds published
- 14 Appearances by CFR experts before Congress
- 43 Magazine or journal articles published
- 45 Reports published
- 109 Expert Briefs, First Takes, and Interviews on CFR.org
- 286 Briefings given to U.S. and foreign government officials
- 354 Study group and roundtable meetings

The Academic Initiative connects educators and students at the college and graduate levels with CFR's research and analysis.

Outreach

Over the past year, the institution greatly expanded its work for the academic community. Made possible in large part by a generous grant from David M. Rubenstein, the Academic Initiative connects educators and students at the college and graduate levels with CFR's research and analysis. The Higher Education Working Group of college, university, and community college presidents and select foundation heads convened for its ninth session. Briefings with fellows and other leading experts focused on the global economy, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East, as well as the implications of globalization for higher education.

As part of its outreach to the religious community, CFR assembled the fifth annual Religion and Foreign Policy Summer Workshop. The more than one hundred participants included congregational leaders from sixteen religious traditions, religious scholars, fellows, and outside experts. Discussions focused on demographic trends in the United States and abroad, political revolutions in the Middle East and North Africa, religious freedom, electoral and economic challenges in Africa, and immigration and border security.

CFR Online

CFR.org attracted a monthly average of 1.3 million page views, up nearly 10 percent from the previous year, and 540,000 unique visitors, an increase of 20 percent from a year earlier. New content partnership agreements with CNN and the Atlantic added hundreds of thousands of monthly page views of CFR content. More than a dozen blogs showcase timely commentary created and curated by in-house experts.

CFR accelerated its in-house broadcast production to reach online audiences around the world more effectively. The website launched new video series featuring fellows' analysis of breaking international developments and the U.S. presidential election, and guided viewers on issues ranging from how international organizations function to lessons learned from major events in modern history. Subscribers to the institution's YouTube channel increased by 85 percent over the past twelve months, and video views grew 170 percent, to 540,000.

Released last October, "Crisis Guide: Iran," the latest multimedia feature in the Emmy Award-winning series, includes analysis of Iran's history, oil-driven economy, and nuclear program from interviews with more than twenty-five experts.

The Global Governance Monitor, an interactive tracking multilateral efforts to address international difficulties, added three new components: on counterterrorism, human rights, and transnational crime. Through timelines, issue briefs, and maps, the monitor shows that international arrangements to fight terrorism are insufficient and uncoordinated, the human rights regime has made strides to prevent abuses and atrocities but falls short in crucial areas, and the anticrime system is not adequate to combat international criminal networks.

This year, the institution's presence in social media developed significantly. Fans on Facebook grew by more than 80 percent as a result of the enhanced experience on our institutional page, while Twitter followers increased nearly 40 percent, propelled in part by the twenty-five fellows now active in that space.

Foreign Affairs

This year has been one of sustained growth and evolution for Foreign Affairs. We continued to put out a compelling print magazine while also ramping up our Web and social media presences, deploying an award-winning mobile website, publishing several ebooks, and doing more live events. The amount of Foreign Affairs content published online only now surpasses the amount published in the print edition, and all of our content is reaching a broader audience, on more platforms, than ever before.

The July/August 2011 issue led with a package on “How America Can Compete,” with major articles by Nobel laureate Michael A. Spence on globalization and unemployment, former budget czar Peter Orszag on health-care reform, and former auto czar Steve Rattner on lessons from the German economic model. Other notable pieces included NATO secretary-general Anders Fogh Rasmussen on “NATO After Libya,” moral philosopher Michael Walzer on humanitarianism, and former deputy national security adviser Elliott Abrams on Israeli settlements.

The September/October issue featured a package pegged to the tenth anniversary of 9/11, including a study of al-Qaeda’s evolution by terrorism expert William McCants, an assessment of the first decade of the war on terror by diplomatic historian Melvyn Leffler, and several analyses of the situation in Afghanistan. A debate between Arvind Subramanian and Salvatore Babones on the speed and inevitability of China’s economic ascent attracted a great deal of attention, as did a penetrating critique of the drug war by Mark Kleiman and a piece on Korea’s foreign policy by Park Geun-hye.

The November/December issue led with a powerful essay by George Packer on economic inequality and social decline—one that was already drawing buzz before the eruption of the Occupy Wall Street protests, for which it provided a de facto manifesto. The issue also contained lively debates on Israel’s greatest challenges and the merits of humanitarian intervention, a look at Indonesia’s prospects by Karen Brooks, a searching analysis of the future of nuclear energy by Ernest Moniz, and an exploration of Bismarck’s lessons for contemporary policymakers in the developing world.

For the January/February 2012 issue, we put out a ninetieth anniversary special section on “The Clash of Ideas,” tracing the emergence and future of the modern order. The package was built around twenty excerpts of essays from the Foreign Affairs archives, by such notable authors as Hamilton Fish Armstrong, Isaiah Berlin, C. P. Kindleberger, Harold Laski, and Leon Trotsky. It also included several new pieces, including a major essay by Francis Fukuyama on “The Future of History.” Rounding out the issue was a trio of articles on the future of the euro, the dollar, and the yuan; a provocative case for attacking Iran’s nuclear program; and an argument for cutting off U.S. military aid to Pakistan.

The March/April issue showcased a variety of traditional and new content. Henry Kissinger contributed a major article on managing U.S.-Chinese relations, Robert Zoellick summed up what he had learned in his five years leading the World Bank, Fouad Ajami assessed the state of the Arab Spring a year on, and U.S. NATO ambassador Ivo Daalder and supreme allied commander James Stavridis discussed the Libya campaign. In addition, astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson made the case for a reinvigorated space program, Robert Putnam and David Campbell analyzed the role of religion in American politics, and David Bell explored the life and contemporary significance of Cardinal Richelieu. Other notable articles included a counterintuitive argument by Micah Zenko and Michael Cohen on the plentiful security of the contemporary international environment and a damning survey of post-American Iraq by CFR Murrow Fellow Ned Parker.

The May/June issue continued this diversity of offerings. It featured traditional fare such as guidance on the future of the U.S. Army by Chief of Staff Raymond Odierno, an authoritative analysis of the Obama administration's foreign policy by Martin Indyk, Kenneth Lieberthal, and Michael O'Hanlon, and a look at developments in Europe by Andrew Moravcsik. At the same time, it led with an excerpt of a new translation of a two-thousand-year-old guide to political campaigning by Quintus Tullius Cicero accompanied by a commentary from political consultant James Carville, and included articles on topics such as noncommunicable diseases, climate change, and renewable energy. A critique of Keynesian analyses of the recession by economist Raghuram Rajan made a particular splash.

With its greater freedom to respond to breaking events, ForeignAffairs.com showcased a flurry of articles throughout the year on timely topics such as the ongoing turbulence in the Middle East, the crack-up in Europe, the Arab-Israeli conflict, the Occupy Wall Street protests, leadership transitions across the globe, and much more. With a newly dynamic Web operation generating two to three fresh online items every weekday, the site saw a surge in traffic and attention, repeatedly hitting new all-time highs and beginning to fulfill its potential as an important driver of public debate.

Having released our first ebook in late spring 2011—The New Arab Revolt, a joint effort with CFR—in late summer we released our second, The U.S. vs. al Qaeda: A History of the War on Terror. At the end of the year we published our third, The Clash of Ideas: The Ideological Battles that Made the Modern World—And Will Shape the Future. In January 2012, the complete Foreign Affairs archives were made available online, with nine thematic collections of highlights presented as an introduction. And a growing series of live events sponsored by the magazine—including author panels, debates, business-oriented investment conferences, and media partnerships with other institutions—has extended our reach on the ground as well.

The magazine's performance on the business side over recent decades has been stellar, and this year continued that trend. Foreign Affairs is a unique phenomenon—a niche publication that also has broad appeal. Unlike most intellectual publications, the magazine remains consistently in the black, rather than being subsidized, as are most serious publications. The bulk of our revenue comes from subscriptions and single-copy sales, while advertising and ancillary products contribute significantly. In recent years, Foreign Affairs has evolved from a professional journal into a broad multimedia forum that now serves a diverse annual audience of three million.

Paid readership of the bimonthly magazine is at an all-time high of 175,000, including those who read it in print, in a digital facsimile edition, and over the Kindle and other ereaders. Readership of ForeignAffairs.com is also at a high. In the first half of 2012, the site attracted

3.2 million unique visitors and 11 million page views. More than 175,000 readers follow Foreign Affairs on social media (including Twitter and Facebook), more than 100,000 subscribe to our free weekly newsletter, and our Foreign Affairs videos on YouTube have been viewed more than 150,000 times. We will continue to embrace the digital revolution in the year to come and are currently developing an app for the iPad.

A crucial architect of all this success has been publisher David Kellogg, who retired at the end of June 2012, after two and a half decades of extraordinary service in that post. His successor, Lynda Hammes, has already played a major role in recent years as deputy publisher and director of digital strategy, and we are delighted that she will be the one building on David’s record.

2012 Board Election and Appointments

The Council's By-Laws provide for a Board consisting of thirty-five Directors (plus the President, ex officio), divided into five classes of seven Directors. Each class serves for a term of five years. In each class, three Directors are elected by the membership and four are appointed by the Board.

Directors with terms expiring on June 30, 2012, were Fouad Ajami, Sylvia Mathews Burwell, Kenneth M. Duberstein, Stephen Friedman, Carla A. Hills, Jami Miscik, and Robert E. Rubin.

The Nominating and Governance Committee was composed of Mary McInnis Boies (Chair), Madeleine K. Albright, Sylvia Mathews Burwell, Kenneth M. Duberstein, Nancy A. Jarvis, Kenneth I. Juster, Maria Elena Lagomasino, Edward J. Mathias, Jami Miscik, Theodore Roosevelt IV, Stanley S. Shuman, G. Richard Thoman, R. Keith Walton, and Christine Todd Whitman. On December 6, 2011, the Chair invited the Council membership to propose possible candidates. The Nominating and Governance Committee met on February 22, 2012, to consider the pool of names suggested by Council members for the three elective vacancies. Mindful of its mandate to consider "the need for diversity with regard to age, sex, race, geographical representation, and professional background," the Nominating and Governance Committee developed the following slate of nominees for the Class of 2017: Sylvia Mathews Burwell, Dan E. Caldwell, Peter B. Henry, Karen Parker Feld, Mona K. Sutphen, and Margaret G. Warner. (Incumbent directors eligible to serve another term recused themselves from deliberations on their own candidacies.) On March 23, 2012, Council members were notified of the slate and of the petition process available to them in accordance with the By-Laws. No petition candidate was put forth. A ballot was sent to all Council members on May 1, 2012.

At the Annual Meeting for the Election of Directors on June 5, 2012, 1,624 members participated in person or by proxy, fulfilling the quorum required by By-Law V. No name was written on thirty or more ballots cast at the meeting, and, therefore, no one was nominated for the 2013 election by the write-in procedure outlined in the By-Laws. Sarah A.W. Fitts, Ernest T. Patrikis, and Nancy Young served as election overseers. The following nominees were elected for five-year terms beginning July 1, 2012, and expiring June 30, 2017: Sylvia Mathews Burwell, Peter B. Henry, and Margaret G. Warner.

At its June 14 meeting, the Board also appointed four Council members to serve five-year terms as Directors in the Class of 2017, beginning July 1, 2012, and expiring June 30, 2017: Stephen Friedman, Carla A. Hills, Jami Miscik, and Robert E. Rubin. Two additional directors were appointed: Muhtar Kent to fill a vacancy in the Class of 2016, and Vin Weber to the Class of 2014 to replace Henry R. Kravis, who stepped down on June 30, 2012. Carla A. Hills and Robert E. Rubin were reappointed as co-chairs and David M. Rubenstein was appointed vice chairman.

Membership

MEMBERSHIP

The Council on Foreign Relations is first and foremost a membership organization. With nearly 4,700 members, CFR's roster includes top government officials, renowned scholars, business executives, acclaimed journalists, prominent lawyers, and distinguished nonprofit professionals. Representing a group unmatched in accomplishment and diversity in the field of international affairs, the membership is divided almost equally among those living in New York, Washington, DC, and across the country and abroad.

Members have unparalleled access to world leaders, senior government officials, members of Congress, prominent thinkers and practitioners in academia, policy, and business, and fellow CFR members. Members participate in meetings, panel discussions, interviews, lectures, book clubs, and film screenings to discuss and debate the major foreign policy issues of our time.

STEPHEN M. KELLEN TERM MEMBER PROGRAM

The Stephen M. Kellen Term Member Program, established in 1970 to cultivate the next generation of foreign policy leaders, encourages promising young women and men from diverse backgrounds to engage in a sustained conversation on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Each year a new class of term members is elected to serve a five-year term. The Term Member Program has grown considerably since it was established more than forty years ago; the number of term members is now indexed at up to 15 percent of the total CFR membership. Candidates for term membership must be between the ages of thirty and thirty-six on January 1 of the year in which their election takes place. Term membership elections are held in June following the application deadline.

For more information on term membership, please visit www.cfr.org/about/term_member_program.

APPLYING FOR MEMBERSHIP

The Council seeks quality, diversity, and balance in its membership. Criteria for membership include intellectual achievement and expertise; degree of experience, interest, and current involvement in international affairs; promise of future achievement and service in foreign relations; potential contributions to CFR's work; desire and ability to participate in CFR activities; and standing among peers.

New members are named twice a year by the Board of Directors, which invites selected women and men to join based on the recommendations of the Committee on Membership. The committee, which meets twice a year, is composed of six Board members and other non-Board members appointed by the committee chair.

Candidates for membership must be nominated in writing by a current CFR member and seconded by three other individuals (maximum of four). To be considered for term membership, candidates must be nominated by a current CFR member and seconded by two other individuals (maximum of three). The roster of members is listed following this section and is regularly updated at www.cfr.org/about/membership/roster.html. It is not required that seconding letters come from CFR members, but it is strongly recommended. It is also recommended that at least one letter come from a current or former professional colleague.

All candidates must complete an online application, which can be accessed only by contacting Membership at applications@cfr.org or 212.434.9487. All materials, including nomination and seconding letters, must be submitted using the online application.

Membership in CFR is restricted to U.S. citizens (native born or naturalized) or permanent residents who have made formal application to become citizens. If foreign born, a candidate must submit a written statement that he or she has met this requirement.

For more information on the membership application process, please visit www.cfr.org/about/membership.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

- Letter of nomination from a CFR member;
- Three seconding letters for membership (maximum of four) or two seconding letters for term membership (maximum of three); and
- Completion of online application.

SPONSORING A CANDIDATE FOR MEMBERSHIP

The Council on Foreign Relations relies on its members for their engagement, substantive contributions, and support, and counts on members to identify and nominate or second qualified prospects for membership. Membership development efforts are focused on identifying and attracting diverse leaders in international affairs across all sectors. Members are advised to commit themselves to nominating or seconding a candidate only when they are confident the requirements of the process can be met.

Members should write only in support of candidates whom they know personally. Additionally, members are encouraged to make comparative judgments about candidates where appropriate. The committee also advises members to write no more than two letters per round (either one nominating and one seconding letter or two seconding letters).

NOMINATING LETTERS

Candidates must be nominated by a CFR member. Thoughtful, candid, and succinct comments are far more important than formal endorsements. The first paragraph of a nomination letter must include a clear and comprehensive statement about the nature of the relationship between the candidate and the letter writer. Nomination letters should be no more than five hundred words and should address the following criteria:

- intellectual attainment and expertise;
- degree of experience, interest, and current involvement in international affairs or in other areas affecting international affairs;
- promise of future achievement and service in foreign relations;
- potential contributions to the Council's work;
- desire and ability to participate in Council activities; and
- standing among peers.

SECONDING LETTERS

Seconding letters need not be as comprehensive but should state why the candidate should be considered for CFR membership based on the criteria above with an emphasis on "standing among peers." Letter writers should also provide relevant information that might not be included in a candidate's CV or the nomination letter. The first paragraph of seconding letters must include a clear and comprehensive statement about the nature of the relationship between the candidate and the letter writer. As with nomination letters, thoughtful, candid, and succinct comments are far more important in seconding letters than formal endorsements. It is not required that seconding letters come from current CFR members, but it is strongly recommended.

ADDITIONAL RULES AND REGULATIONS TO CONSIDER

Candidates or their nominators are responsible for ensuring that all required application materials are submitted by the filing deadlines. Please also note the following:

- Officers of CFR as well as members of the Board of Directors and Committee on Membership are precluded from nominating or writing seconding letters on any candidate's behalf.
- A spouse, close relative (parent, sibling, cousin, or the like), or near in-law of a candidate may not formally nominate or second that candidate for CFR membership. Members should also refrain from writing on behalf of clients.
- CFR visiting fellows are prohibited from applying for membership until they have completed their fellowship tenure.

DEADLINES, CANDIDATE NOTIFICATION, AND REACTIVATION

Strict observance of deadlines is essential to staff support of the Committee on Membership's work. Applications not completed prior to the deadline for any given committee meeting will not be considered at that time. All membership candidates and their nominators will receive notification of the committee's decisions according to the schedule below.

	APPLICATION DEADLINE	NOTIFICATION
Membership	March 1	late June
	October 1	mid-February
Term Membership	November 1	late June

Candidates who are held over (not elected) at any given committee meeting may remain eligible for consideration at subsequent meetings. An application may be reactivated by submitting an updated CV and basic information, using the online application, and securing a minimum of one and a maximum of three additional seconding letters that provide new insights that would be helpful in the selection process. It is not required that seconding letters come from current CFR members, but it is strongly recommended. The original nomination letter as well as seconding letters submitted in previous applications will remain on file for a period of ten years. Candidates may submit new letters from previous letter writers only when new content is included.

If a candidate is not elected after two consecutive meetings, the application will be placed on hold for a period of three years for membership candidates and one year for term membership candidates. After the hold period, the candidate may reactivate the file for consideration. For term membership applicants, the hold period does not apply if a candidate would be ineligible to reapply due to age.

For more information on nominating a candidate or to learn more about applying for membership, please contact Nancy D. Bodurtha, vice president, meetings and membership, at 212.434.9466 or applications@cfr.org.

International Affairs Fellowship Program

Launched in 1967, the International Affairs Fellowship (IAF) is a distinguished program offered by the Council on Foreign Relations to assist mid-career scholars and professionals in advancing their analytic capabilities and broadening their foreign policy experience. The program aims to strengthen career development by helping outstanding individuals acquire and apply foreign policy skills beyond the scope of their professional and scholarly achievements. The distinctive character of the IAF Program lies in the contrasting professional experiences fellows obtain through their twelve-month appointments. Selected fellows from academia and the private sector spend fellowship tenures in public service and policy-oriented settings, and government officials spend theirs in a scholarly atmosphere free from operational pressure. CFR awards approximately ten fellowships annually to highly accomplished individuals who show a capacity for independent work and are eager to undertake serious foreign policy analysis. Approximately half of the selected IAFs each year spend their tenures working full time in government; the remaining half are placed at academic institutions, think tanks, or nonprofit organizations. The IAF Program is open only to U.S. citizens and permanent residents between the ages of twenty-seven and thirty-five who are eligible to work in the United States.

CFR also offers a country-specific fellowship to U.S. citizens between the ages of twenty-seven and forty-five. The IAF in Japan, sponsored by Hitachi, Ltd., seeks to strengthen mutual understanding and cooperation between the rising generations of leaders in the United States and Japan. Founded in 1997, the program provides a selected group of mid-career U.S. citizens the opportunity to expand their professional horizons by spending a period of research or other professional activity in Japan.

The Board of Directors may elect honorary members with such membership rights, excluding the right to vote in Council affairs, as the Board may designate.

In any fiscal year, the Board is not constrained in the number of persons elected to five-year term membership so long as the total number of term members does not exceed 15 percent of the total membership. The terms and conditions of such membership shall be as prescribed by the Board, provided that those elected to such membership are between the ages of thirty and thirty-six on January 1 of the year in which their election would take place, and that so long as their term continues such members will have the full rights and privileges of Council membership.

The Board of Directors may establish such other special categories of membership having such rights and privileges, and subject to such conditions, as the Board may designate.

A New York Area member is one whose residence or principal place of business is within fifty miles of City Hall in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York. A Washington, DC, Area member is one whose residence or principal place of business is within fifty miles of the Capitol in the District of Columbia. All other members are National. All members other than honorary members shall be citizens of the United States or permanent residents of the United States who have made application to become citizens.

A member may be dropped or suspended from membership for a period of six months or more only by a unanimous vote of those Directors attending a meeting of the Board at which a quorum is present and voting, for any violation of the By-Laws or rules or regulations of the Board of Directors, or for any conduct even though not in actual violation of a By-Law or rule that, in the opinion of the Board, is nevertheless prejudicial to the best interests, reputation, and proper functioning of the Council. A member's privileges may be suspended for a period of up to six months by action of the President subject to approval by the Chairman of the Board.

II. It is an express condition of membership in the Council, to which condition every member accedes by virtue of his or her membership, that members will observe such rules and regulations as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Directors concerning the conduct of Council meetings or the attribution of statements made therein, and that any disclosure, publication, or other action by a member in contravention thereof may be regarded by the Board of Directors in its sole discretion as ground for termination or suspension of membership pursuant to Article I of the By-Laws.

Rules, Guidelines, and Practices

The following items describe important Rules, Guidelines, and Practices of the Council on Foreign Relations, with which members and staff should familiarize themselves.

RULE ON FOREIGN POLICY POSITIONS

The following has been the policy of the Council since its origin, reconfirmed by resolution of the Board of Directors on September 11, 1973:

“The Council shall not take any position on questions of foreign policy, and no person is authorized to speak, or purport to speak, for the Council on such matters.”

RULE ON NON-ATTRIBUTION

“The Council is a research and educational institution. Everyone who participates in a Council meeting is encouraged to use and disseminate ideas and information developed in the meeting. It is recognized, at the same time, that many Council guests and members are, by reason of their governmental or other institutional affiliations, subject to inevitable constraints upon their latitude to express opinions, take positions, or offer tentative judgments on public affairs issues if they are speaking in a public forum or if their statements will be later attributed to them in public media or a public forum.

“Full freedom of expression is encouraged at Council meetings. Participants are assured that they may speak openly, as it is the tradition of the Council that others will not attribute or characterize their statements in public media or forums or knowingly transmit them to persons who will. All participants are expected to honor that commitment.

“An appropriate officer of the Council may, however, by advance announcement declare this Rule inapplicable in whole or in part to any particular Council meeting, and the presentation portion of the meeting may be recorded and broadcast on electronic media and/or covered in the print media with the agreement of the speaker and advance announcement to other participants.

“Notwithstanding the above Rule, the Board of Directors may, from time to time, prescribe rules governing the subsequent release of any Council records.

“While the substance of the above Rule has been in effect since the formation of the Council, its present formulation was adopted by the Board of Directors on June 6, 1977, on the recommendation of a special Advisory Panel on the Non-Attribution Rule, and subsequently amended on June 7, 1994. The minutes of the June 1977 meeting contain the following explanatory comments about the Rule:

“The report recognizes that ‘media’ and ‘public forum’ are vague terms. But they can nevertheless be rationally interpreted in the light of the purpose of the Rule. For example, the reformulation would make it legitimate for a U.S. governmental official to report by memo to his colleagues and superiors what he learned at a Council meeting. Similarly, the reformulation recognizes that a lawyer may give such a memo to his partners, or a corporate officer to other corporate officers. It would not be in compliance with the reformulated Rule, however, for any meeting participant (i) to publish a speaker’s statement in attributed form in a newspaper; (ii) to repeat it on television or radio, or on a speaker’s platform, or in a classroom; or (iii) to go beyond a memo of limited circulation, by distributing the attributed statement in a company or government agency newsletter. The language of the Rule also goes out of its way to make it clear that a meeting participant is forbidden knowingly to transmit the attributed statement to a newspaper reporter or other such person who is likely to publish it in a public medium. The essence of the Rule as reformulated is simple enough: participants in Council meetings should not pass along an attributed statement in circumstances where there is substantial risk that it will promptly be widely circulated or published.”

GUIDELINES ON MEETINGS

By resolution adopted on February 28, 1972, as subsequently amended, the Board of Directors has prescribed the following Guidelines governing Council meetings:

“The purpose of meetings sponsored by the Council on Foreign Relations is to promote understanding of international affairs through the free interchange of ideas among participants.

“In order to encourage to the fullest a free, frank, and open exchange of ideas in Council meetings, the Board of Directors has prescribed, in addition to the Non-Attribution Rule, the following Guidelines. All participants in Council meetings are expected to be familiar with and adhere to these Guidelines.

“1. Since the Council invites guests representing many different viewpoints, since it selects topics regardless of, or because of, their controversiality, and since there is a wide divergence of viewpoints among members, it is to be expected that Council meetings will sometimes be marked by sharp dispute.

“2. Meetings chairmen are expected to stimulate open expression of opinion by all participants and should not attempt to mute controversy or stifle differences of viewpoint where they exist. To this end, it is the responsibility of chairmen to see to it that all viewpoints expressed are treated with respect and that parliamentary decorum is maintained.

“3. Principal speakers should expect to be questioned vigorously on any point relevant to their intellectual interest, experience, or expertise in international affairs. It is recognized, however, that some speakers, particularly those holding official positions, may not feel free to answer some questions, and, in such case, their declination will be respected.”

Apart from the traditional meetings for spouses and for sons and daughters of the members, occasional meetings are also open to guests of members. Guest privileges are for those who have special expertise or experience that relates directly to the meeting, as well as the general qualifications of potential candidates for Council membership. Members bringing guests should secure the permission of the Council department organizing the meeting and acquaint their guests with the Council’s Non-Attribution Rule governing what is said at meetings.

POLICY ON CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

By resolution of the Council’s Board of Directors, adopted June 9, 2005, the following policy concerning actual or potential conflicts of interest was approved:

“The Directors, Officers, and staff of the Council on Foreign Relations (the ‘Council’) owe a duty of loyalty to the Council, which requires that in their positions, they act in the interest of the Council and not in their personal interests. Directors, Officers, and staff members may not use their positions or nonpublic information about the Council they obtain through their positions in a manner that allows them to secure a significant economic benefit, either directly or indirectly, for themselves or their immediate family. In sum, it is the policy of the Council that its Directors, Officers, and staff have the obligation to avoid ethical, legal, financial, or other conflicts of interest, and the appearance thereof, and to ensure that their activities and interests do not conflict with their obligations to the Council or to its welfare.

“A conflict of interest or the appearance thereof may exist but is not limited to a circumstance when any Director, Officer, or staff member, or member of his or her immediate family (defined for these purposes as a spouse or domestic partner, parents, children, siblings, and in-laws) or an affiliated entity, would have a significant economic interest, directly or indirectly, in a transaction with the Council or any other matter that may come before the Board or a Board Committee.

“Conflicts of interest or appearances thereof are not limited to financial interests, but include affiliations or other divided loyalties which may influence a decision or appear to cause favoritism in a matter involving the Council.

“All conflicts shall be fully disclosed in writing to the Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee, or to the Vice President, Human Resources and Administration, in the case of staff members who are not Officers. After receipt of such notice, the Board may authorize the transaction at issue, provided that (i) it does not violate the law and (ii) the Director or Officer having such conflict refrains from voting or otherwise attempting to influence the decision thereon. The minutes of the meeting shall reflect such disclosure and abstention.

“In the case of a staff member who is not an Officer, after disclosure by the Vice President, Human Resources and Administration, to the Chief Financial Officer and the President, those Officers may choose to submit the question to the Board or an appropriate Committee of the Board for a decision or to proceed with the transaction at issue, provided that proceeding does not violate the law.

“When there is doubt as to whether a conflict of interest exists, the matter shall be resolved by a vote of the Board, excluding the person concerned.

“Nothing herein shall prevent the Council from the payment of salary and other compensation or the reimbursement of expenses for personal services which are reasonable and necessary to carrying out the purpose of the Council, provided such payments or reimbursements are reasonable and not excessive.

“A copy of this policy shall be furnished to each Director at the time of his or her election or appointment to the Board and any renewal thereof, to each Officer who is a staff member annually at the time of their appointment at the fall meeting of the Board, and to other key staff members at the time of hire. As a condition of service, the Council shall require each Director, Officer, and key staff member to sign the conflict of interest disclosure statement annually.”

ARCHIVAL PRACTICE

By resolution of the Council’s Board of Directors, adopted June 3, 1999, all substantive records of the Council more than twenty-five years old are open for reference use during library hours at the Seeley G. Mudd Manuscript Library at Princeton University, subject to the following proviso:

“As a condition of use, the Officers of the Council shall require each user of Council records to execute a prior written commitment that he or she will not directly or indirectly attribute to any living person any assertion of fact or opinion based upon any Council record without first obtaining from such person his or her written consent thereto.”
